This is the second issue of STUDIA JUDAICA, a yearly publication of the "Dr. Moshe Carmilly" Institute for Hebrew and Jewish History, The "Babeș-Bolyai" University of Cluj-Napoca, The Faculty of History and Philosophy. Following the inaugural issue, it aims at presenting the results of the research program in the field for the past year. Most of the articles included were presented as papers at the Second International Conference "Central and South-East European Jewish Literature, Art, Music and Folklore", October 1992, attended by distinguished Romanian and foreign scholars. We have also added new sections: one of "History and Archeology", one of reviews of recent studies concerning the history and culture of Jews, as well as a survey of the teaching and research work conducted by our Institute since October 1990.

We hope that this new issue will be of interest to all those who are concerned with the revitalization of the Jewish Studies in Romania and will shed new light upon the rich historical and cultural Jewish heritage in the area.
